WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 9

The returns of the elections held yesterday, received up to 4 p. m., to day, indicate that the republicans have made considerable gains, and show conclusively that what strength the greenbackers possessed was furnished by those who had previously been democrats. This is, in every respect, contrary to our desires, if not to our expectations. But all is not lost. The control of the next House of Representatives is still possible for the democrats, but in order for them to secure it they must accept yesterday's experience as a warning, and make haste to repudiate the doctrines of foolish blather-skies like Kearny, of men made reckless by their losses like Pomeroy, and of such men as Gen. Butler, who, having put their fortunes out of harm's way, seek to gratify their ambition through the wiles of the demagogue. They must stoutly and denounce all wild theories founded upon the undemocratic idea that money of the character of Continental and Confederate currency is better than gold. The laborer wants the dollar he gets for a hard day's work as good as gold, the farmer wants the money he receives for his crops as good as gold, the mechanic wants his wages paid in money as good as gold, the professional man wants his fees in currency that will pay as much as gold, the office holder wants his salary paid in money as good as gold, the property owner wants his rents paid in money as good as gold, and the savings bank depositors, the stockholders and bond owners want their dividends in money as good as gold. Every man who sells anything on credit wants to be paid for it in money worth as much when due as it was when the debt was contracted; in short, none want a depreciated currency except those who desire to pay debts with it; and, owing to the long prevailing stringency, the credit system has been curtailed considerably, so that the debtor class is by no means as numerous as it was formerly. The pocket nerve is the most sensitive in a man's whole body, and people will not vote for men who avow their determination to support such legislative measures as must of necessity depreciate the value of the little money they have or expect to have. A paper dollar, owing solely to the near approach of the time when, by law, it will be redeemable in gold, is now worth practically as much as one made of gold, and yet most, if not all, of the regular democratic nominees for Congress from Virginia stand on platforms in favor of the repeal of the redemption law and an inflation of the currency, which, as the government can neither give nor lend people money, would only decrease the value of that already in circulation. Gen. Echols is the only candidate for Congress in the whole State who comes up to the requirements of the time. He avows his belief not only in the good, hard, common sense of Virginians, but in their honor and integrity, and avers that he is in favor of money that will be worth as much to orphan children as it is to their father, and scorn the repudiation of the national as much as he does that of the State debt. We are all now Americans as well as Virginians—none the less so because we were cheated out of our fairly elected President—and the infamy of national repudiation would attach as well to a citizen of new Virginia as to one of the old Bay State. Honestly as we advocate to parties as it is to individuals, and the single instance of harm resulting from the payment of one's debts in good money, when due, is yet to be narrated. The republicans, as a general thing, have had sense enough to adopt these plain, homely and true views, and by so doing, heavily handicapped as they were by their long reign of misrule, crowned by their rape of the presidency, have already considerably improved their chances of obtaining a majority in the House of Representatives that probably may have to elect the next President. Fortunately the democrats of New York and Massachusetts have boldly proclaimed their adherence to the wise and time honored democratic doctrine of hard money, and the sooner those of the other States follow their example the better it will be for them. Yesterday's election news has again recalled to our memory the remark of Gen. Grant, to the effect that whenever the democrats are on the high road to success they are sure to be guilty of some foolishness that will defeat them. This was not so before the war, when the leaders of the democracy were the ablest men in the country, and we trust that the mediocrity of the present leaders is not so obtuse as to blind them to the warning of yesterday's election.

The flag of ill omen, the red one, is flying from the front door of "Roonoke," in Charlotte county, the home of John Randolph. The house and the tract of land attached to it have been in possession of the heirs of the illustrious statesman from his death until the present time, but now like many another old Virginia homestead that has passed into the stranger's hand, they, too, are offered to the highest bidder, and doubtless the patter of the feet of children, in whose father's breast the name of Randolph produces no more emotion than that of Smith, will soon be heard on the door sill crossed so often by the distinguished son of a once proud State. His body was buried with the head to the north, and though the two tall pines that grow at either end of his grave seem as enduring as the unhewn rock that covers it, their solemn sigh seems to have seared all other life away from the spot shaded by their whispering leaves, for the hardest plant withers and dies under the influence of their baleful shadow, and the grave and large, rough stone, that was laid upon it when it was first made, are bare of any green thing, despite the numerous efforts to make it otherwise. It was always so; there seems to be a spell upon the place.

The intentional insult offered England by the Amer of Afghanistan is in process of being repented if not wiped out. The British army is already on its way to the Amer's country, and as Russia has declared that she had nothing to do with the insult, and implied that she will oppose no obstacle to re-seeing it, a short war and ample apologies are the contingencies most likely to happen.

A comparison of the number and enormity of the crimes now committed by the colored people, in all parts of the country, with those committed before the war, goes far to prove that the moral condition, at least, of these people has not been improved by the abolition of slavery.

The insurrection of the negroes in Santa Cruz has been suppressed, but while it lasted all the horrors of the Wyoming massacre were re-enacted, and the destruction of life and property has been great.

Yellow Fever.
MEMPHIS, Oct. 8.—The weather is settled and warm, which is favorable to the further spreading of the disease. From 6 o'clock last evening until 12 o'clock to-day twenty-two deaths are reported by the undertakers. The Howard Association this morning sent eight notes to Lagrange, five to Collinsville and three to Tusculum.

The footings to date are 10,736 cases and 3,261 deaths.
No deaths in Port Gibson, Miss., since Sunday's report. There are but few cases, and but few are left to have the fever. News from the country is fearful. The following whites have died since the last report: Dr. Thomas Young, B. R. Newman, son of Louis F. Newman; John J. B. Russell, Bertron Parnell, Ben. Humphreys, Jr., son of Hon. G. W. Humphreys; Mr. Stewart and Mr. Shanon, on G. W. Humphreys' place; two persons named Goesshore, mother and son, and Rev. S. R. Bertron. At least forty whites have died of yellow fever in the country. The number of colored persons who have died cannot be given, but it will largely exceed the number of whites.

The deaths from yellow fever at Chattanooga have been Harry Savage, Mat. Schwei, Sarah Hall, Charles Keisler, the latter a nurse from Portsmouth, Va. Twenty new cases, twelve of them colored. Among the new cases to-day are Drs. G. A. Baxter and E. M. Baird, but both are doing well. Keisler is the third nurse that has died; several others are down. Weather unfavorable, but the disease is still in its old quarters. A camp has been established on Bald Knob, near the fair grounds, and the infected district is being depopulated.

There is no abatement in the fever at Pattersonville, La. It is gradually spreading from house to house, and assuming a more malignant form. Among the whites there have been 75 cases and 20 deaths to date and 4 new cases to-day. The deaths on Monday were Miss Sissy Palfrey and Master Killee. Mrs. Doot Joseph Knight died to-day. At Canton, 9 new cases; 9 deaths. Fever spreading in the country.

The fever has appeared at Raleigh, Tenn. A fire occurred at Greytown on Aug. 18th, by which the main building of the Nicaragua Steam Navigation Company's works was destroyed.

Capt. Charles H. E. Judkins, formerly "Commodore" of the Cunard fleet of steamships, died in Liverpool Monday night.

An Italian physician named Secchi has lately been detected in Havana, Cuba, importing coals from the island of Trinidad. The British consul in Havana called the attention of the authorities, and the captain general took charge of the first importation of about forty persons on their arrival on the Spanish steamer Manuela. Secchi had also contracted with French and English steamers for transportation.

RICH GIRLS TAKE THE VEIL.—Five noble and wealthy English girls are about to take the veil, all having considerable fortunes in their own right. They are Lady Edith Noel, daughter of the Earl of Gainsborough; the Hon. Constance Howard, sister of the Marchioness of Bute; two daughters of the Hon. Maxwell Stuart, of Treghar, Fifehire, and the youngest daughter of Mr. Blount, of Mapledurham, the representative of the staunchest Catholic family among commoners in England.

The Elections.

OHIO.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 9.—1:45 a. m.—At one o'clock the indications point to the election of the entire republican State ticket in Ohio and of a majority of members in the doubtful Congressional districts. The first two districts, which comprise the city of Cincinnati, elect republican Congressmen for the first time in several years. Butterworth is elected over Saylor in the first district by several hundred, and ex-Governor Xuong has defeated L. W. Goss, democrat, in the second district. The republicans even claim the third or Dayton district, which was democratic two years ago by over 2,000.

Converso is defeated in the 9th district by English, Independent.

Neal, republican, beats Emmett in the 12th district by 1,200 majority.

Foster has made large gains in the eighth, but probably not enough to overcome 4,800 majority against him. The fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth are democratic; the seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth are republican. The eleventh, fifth and thirteenth are still in doubt. The republicans expect to elect enough representatives to give them a majority in the delegation.

A dispatch from Cincinnati says: The republicans are boisterous and jubilant, claiming the election of both Congressmen here and the whole county ticket. There is great scratching, but the indications all are of republican gains. In the State the greenback vote comes almost entirely from the democrats, while the republicans case about the same vote as last year, thus commanding the plurality. The indications now are that the State ticket will be carried by the republicans by about ten thousand majority, and that they will gain Congressmen in the first and second districts.

INDIANA.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—1:50 a. m.—At midnight there were not returns from more than fifty precincts in Indiana. Dispatches indicate the election of Hillman in the first district, and make the election of Orth certain. The democratic majority in Allen county falls off heavily, and the republicans can count on the election of a Senator. The republicans have probably elected their whole county ticket. Hanna's reelection to Congress is considered.

The State ticket is probably democratic with the legislature in doubt.

IOWA.

BURLINGTON, Oct. 9.—midnight.—Returns are coming in slowly on account of storms, but thus far they show republican gains. Iowa has elected a solid republican Congressional delegation. The State ticket is elected by increased majorities over last year.

WEST VIRGINIA.

ST. JOHNS, Oct. 8.—Morgan county closely contested. Six election districts out of eight heard from. Martin, democrat, for Congress carries the county by a strong majority.

WHEELING, Oct. 8.—The first district is close. Scattering returns show that Hubbard, republican, gains largely on Wilson, democrat. In the second district Martin, democrat, is re-elected to Congress over Burr, republican. In the third district Kenna is probably re-elected over Walker, greenbacker.

SUMMARY.

In Ohio the returns thus far received show large republican gains, and render it certain that the republicans have undoubtedly elected probably twelve of the twenty Congressmen.

Indiana has gone democratic on the State ticket by about the same majority as in 1876. The Indiana Congressional delegation will probably stand six republicans, five democrats, and two districts in doubt.

In Iowa the republican majority is large. Two democratic Congressmen have been elected in West Virginia, but in the third district the contest between the democratic and greenback candidates is not decided by present returns.

NEWARK, Oct. 9.—At the municipal election here yesterday the republicans carried the city by a majority of 2,700 over the democrats. The total vote of one district is estimated at 8,600 republicans, 5,900 democrats, and 2,900 greenbacks. The republicans carried thirteen of fifteen wards on the city ticket and elected eleven of fifteen aldermen, a gain of two as compared with last year.

They also gain one school director and four freeholders. The republicans elect eleven aldermen, eleven school directors, and twelve freeholders. The democrats elect four aldermen, three school directors and two freeholders. The greenbackers, one school director and one freeholder.

The Esquire charges the result in the city to fraud, corruption and terrorizing the timid by the Deputy U. S. Marshals and the defection of a portion of the Irish vote. It exceeds the State by from 5,000 to 10,000 majority, and claims 11 of the 20 congressional districts, not counting Goss, dem., in the second district.

The Gazette claims Xuong, republican, elected over Goss, democrat, in the Second, and says there has been an error in counting. It claims it is a victory of honest money and good faith, public and private contracts over the scheme of false and slippery money, which many thought would carry into office any party that adopted it. The democratic ticket in Hamilton Co. is carried by a majority of from 1,000 to 2,000.

At Chillicothe 15 out of 23 precincts give a republican gain of 344. The rest will increase this gain.

At Springfield the republican county ticket is elected by something over 1,000 majority.

At Dayton the republicans probably elect their sheriff and possibly their probate judge. There are indications of a republican gain on the county ticket of over 400.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 9.—At 4 o'clock this morning latest reports on the Congressional ticket place the First district in doubt, the democrats elect in the Second and Third; 4th, 5th and 6th in doubt; 7th, Hanna, republican, probably elected; 8th in doubt; 9th, O. H. republican, elected; 10th and 11th, republican; 12th, democratic, and 13th republican.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—A Charleston, W. Va., dispatch says: The election was carried on with great energy, each party doing its utmost to bring out every voter.

The indications are that Kenna, democrat, 3d district, will have 500 majority over Walker, republican and greenbacker. The county officers are in doubt. The legislature is largely democratic.

Parkersburg arrives that Wilson, dem., for Congress, carries that county by 200 majority. All the democratic ticket is elected except the clerk of the Circuit Court.

CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 9.—3:15 a. m.—The following are the latest returns from the Ohio election: Thirty towns give Buchanan, republican, for Supreme Judge, 2,078 majority. Eighty-one towns give Hull, republican, for Secretary of State, 6,780 majority. Five towns give McCoid, in the 21st district, 518 majority. Five towns in the 21st district give Bronnau, democrat, 38 majority. Five towns in the 3d district give Undergraff, republican, 472 majority. Fourteen towns in the fourth district give Deering, republican, 1,141 majority. Fourteen towns in the 5th district give Clark, republican, 390 majority. Fifteen towns of the 6th district give Sampson, republican, 111 majority. Seven towns in the seventh district give Cummings, republican, 618 majority. Eight towns in the 8th district give Sapp, republican, 375 majority. Nineteen towns in the 9th district give Carpenter, republican, 368 majority.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—Complete and reliable returns for this county give Barnes, republican, for Secretary of State, 1,641 majority over Paige, democrat. Butterworth, rep., for Congress in the first district, 1,066 majority over Saylor. Xuong, rep., for Congress in the 2d district, 1,080 majority over Goss, dem. The error in the count of the latter's vote was discovered and corrected this morning.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 9.—A dispatch from Huntington, W. Va., says: Harvey, the republican and greenback candidate for the State Legislature, was elected by 200 majority.

Railroad Accident.
WALLSTON, Mass., Oct. 9.—An excursion train, consisting of nineteen passenger cars and an English coach car and freight car, met with a terrible accident a mile and a half north of Quincy, Mass., yesterday, a quarter past 7 o'clock p. m. The train was loaded with passengers coming from the Davis and Reagan boat race at Silver Lake. The cause of the accident is attributed to jumping a switch or jumping the track. The three forward cars, including the English cab, which contained Reagan, the coachman, and reporters and backers of the boatmen, were piled up on each other. Reagan was reported killed.

At midnight no intelligent account had been received, but it is known at least ten were killed and about one hundred wounded in a greater or less degree. Patrick Reagan, the loser of the race to day, was sitting with Mrs. Faulkner, the wife of his old boatman partner, and both were killed. Charles H. Morgan, a son of the editor of the Express, was killed.

Among the injured are Mrs. Blakie, wife of the Cambridge boat builder; Geo. G. Kimball, of the Associated Press; Walter Safford, reporter of the Express; Mike Mahoney, of the Shawmut crew, and two of General Butler's sons, who are reported seriously hurt.

It is stated James Flynn, manager of the Silver Lake race, was fatally hurt.

The list of killed as far as known is as follows: Stephen Grady, East Boston; J. A. May and Charles Morgan, of the Boston Express; Mr. White, South Boston; John Day, Cambridge; Michael Claffey, Boston; Patrick Reagan, Boston; Mrs. Faulkner and child; also Reagan's father in law, name not yet known.

LATER.
NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—A dispatch from Boston about the terrible railroad accident on the Old Colony Railroad, yesterday, says: "Both engines and six cars left the track and, propelled upon each other by the terrible momentum of the cars behind, were ground into each other, overturned and wrecked. Three were smashed to atoms. In the train was a telegraph operator named McFarland, and as soon as the accident happened he cut the wire and telegraphed to this city. The news spread everywhere instantly, and in a short time a crowd of over a thousand people were gathered in the street about the depot. One hundred policemen were quickly summoned, and four hundred men were driven away by the insurgents' suspicion of their having come to an understanding with the Russians, and it is feared that their dismissal will be followed by an outbreak, anarchy and brigandage."

The Russian Charge d'Affaires has informed the Porte that the wagons with Christiana and Adrianople, and he has requested the Porte to send a commission and a detachment of troops to reassure the population.

The Fitz John Porter Case.
During the examination of the Fitz John Porter case at New York, yesterday, Captain Wm. B. Blackford, of Washington, D. C., testified that he was on the staff of Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, and testified as to the movements of Stuart, Lee and Longstreet, on the 29th of August. The latter came through Thoroughfare Gap that morning, and Stuart went out to open communication with him. Witness was sent out to ascertain the character and number of the Federal troops near Dawkins' Branch, and reported Porter's forces, whom he saw there. He heard nothing but artillery fire that day, and knew nothing about the dragging about of brush by Stuart's men, as has been reported. His cross examination developed nothing, except that there was no movement in the nature of a retreat by Jackson's forces on the 29th.

Col. Henry K. Douglas, of Hagerstown, Maryland, was the next witness. He was acting as General Stonewall Jackson's Assistant Adjutant General on the 29th of August. He indicated on the map the various positions of Jackson's divisions on the 29th of August, near Groveton. There was nearly artillery firing on the day, and the infantry attack was very vigorous. He did not know when Longstreet arrived, or what his position was. Jackson's line was not advanced for any length of time during the day, and was once or twice forced back, but not seriously, and he did not send to Longstreet for reinforcements.

Boschard W. Brobbel, of Atlanta, called. He was Major of artillery in Hood's Division of the Confederate Army. He testified as to the position he held in the space between Jackson and Longstreet on the 29th. The artillery fire was heavy, and he saw some infantry fighting. He heard no firing in the morning until he began to use his batteries about noon.

News of the Day.
Miss Annie Custers, a beautiful and charming belle of Northampton county, N. C., came to a shocking death on Saturday. Captain Thomas F. Torgy, a lover of the lady, had just returned from hunting, and sat with her in the parlor of her father's residence. He said that both barrels of his shot gun were unloaded, and proceeded to speak of what a fine time he had had in the forest. While he was talking he happened to fool with the trigger of his gun, when it went off, and a heavy load of buckshot tore Miss Custer's head all to pieces. The unfortunate victim was popular with every one, and her untimely end will be mourned by the community.

Whist the majority of the employees at Dupont's Powder Mills, at Wilmington, Del., were absent at dinner yesterday, an explosion took place in one of the yards, and a quickly communicated to an adjoining one, where all the powder was consumed by the flame. The building also sustained some injury, but covered by insurance. The water wheel being luckily stopped at the time, prevented any further damage, whilst the absence of the hands prevented any loss of life.

Christian Lantz, a private waterman of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was killed and Michael Riordan, his fellow officer, seriously wounded by two negro desperadoes at Martinsburg yesterday.

with the latest reports from the scene of the accident were read.

Boston, Oct. 9.—Both tracks at Wallston, of Old Colony Railroad, were cleared at half past six this morning, and an onward bound train passed the scene of last night's disaster at a quarter past six o'clock this morning.

Superintendent Kendrick, of the Old Colony Railroad, when asked as to where the blame lay, said that so far as he had then learned, the employees in charge of the train from Silver Lake were not to blame. He was of the opinion that the fault lay with the conductor of the freight train. This was all he had to say in relation to the affair.

In addition to the list of the dead sent last night, the following deaths are reported:—Edward Doherty, grocer of Boston, Edwin E. White, of Boston, instead of Mr. White, of South Boston; John O'Brien, of Boston, Patrick Lavery, of Boston, and Councilman M. F. Wells, whose body was found late last night. Mr. Reagan's father in law was not among the dead as reported last night. The death list up to noon to day comprises nineteen persons.

The London Mark Lane Express says: "Although the opinion obtains that the lowest prices have been reached, it has been expressed with much diffidence, as the allig demand has shown very few signs of increase, and unless it does, sales can only be forced at lower rates, seeing that speculative buyers hold altogether aloof. Should the winter prove severe, increased consumption may fairly raise prices a few shillings per quarter, but if, as is not unfrequently the case, the reverse is experienced, it is difficult to say what is to prevent the threatened glut of corn. Maize gave way six pence per quarter at the beginning of the week, but with diminished shipments from America and an advance quoted in Liverpool, the decline has been to some extent recovered. With large arrivals at ports of call during the past week the floating cargo trade for wheat ruled steady, without quotable change, and the demand for the continent still continues."

SIMLA, Oct. 9.—It is officially announced that no collision with the Afghans has occurred and no immediate attack upon the Muzjid is contemplated. Beyond active military preparations nothing has been done, and all statements to the contrary are false.
